Audrey It-Girl

As the marketing and PR manager for Chaya and M Café restaurants in Southern California, Cindy S. Choi says she is "guaranteed a perfect double shot of espresso every morning to help me get through the day of taking all the various media and press requests. ... It's never a boring day at the office." And because the 24-year-old works right off of trendy Robertson Boulevard, home to über boutiques Kitson and Madison, she keeps her look "trendy but professional." But don't call her a fashion victim. "I'm not going to wear something just because it's hot off the runway," says Cindy. "Personal style is most important. When you're comfortable in your clothes, it shows."

My obsession: I have a closet full of amazing fitted blazers and jackets. I also love clothes with bold colors and anything vintage, especially accessories!
My next purchase: A cute vintage corset belt.
Jewelry, bags or shoes: Shoes! Shoes! Shoes! The higher, the better. Every girl should have a collection of great power heels to make her feel sexy.

Lots to Love

Thank goodness for The Little Bra Company's Emily Lau. Trust us, these bras fit amazingly. Our favorites are "Ethel" (on model) and "Lucia," shown here.
